This book is a fantastic story about a soldier who had a remarkable military ...By GmawThis book is not the usual Civil War soldier book filled with dry facts and figures. This book is a fantastic story about a soldier who had a remarkable military service and went on to do great things afterward. This book is great for the hardcore Civil War buff and the newbie as well, or anyone interested in Washington County, PA. There are small, fun stories sprinkled throughout the book, told by a member of the 11th Pennsylvania, that really add to the enjoyment. There are areas that tell lots of information that you don't find in most Civil War books, that help the novice understand exactly what's going on and why. The hardcore buff will enjoy the details presented. Having the battles mostly as told by the men who were there was an interesting way of telling that part of the story. The author backs up his facts with pages of endnotes. I don't want to give too much away, but this story would make a great TV miniseries. It's unbelievable that the Major is unknown today. There should be a statue of him somewhere. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Great read! By Dr. Shredder We are using this book in our AP United States History course. This is a wonderful account of a man who was a hero, yet has not been recognized for his great and positive efforts in our local community's storied history.

The amazing true story of Washington County Pennsylvania's forgotten Civil War hero and his incredible extended family. A.G. Happer found himself not only a part of most of the major battles in the eastern theater as a Lieutenant in the famous 11th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, The "Bloody Eleventh," he was in the hottest spots on most of those battlefields. Second Manassas, Second Manassas, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, The Wilderness and more! Twice wounded, left for dead on the battlefield, rescued by a slave, suffering as a prisoner of war, barely alive, he persevered to survive. Chosen by the Governor to ride with the slain President Lincoln on the Lincoln funeral train through Pennsylvania. Then, with his service to his country at an end, he began his service to his community. Read along as he and his family help build a county, a state, and a nation. This book is being used as a supplementary text in the Advanced Placement History department at Washington High School, Washington, Pennsylvania.
