

[Read free] Catching Sense: African American Communities on a South Carolina Sea Island

Catching Sense: African American Communities on a South Carolina Sea Island

Patricia Guthrie

*ebooks / Download PDF / *ePub / DOC / audiobook*

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

#6126450 in Books Praeger 1996-04-18Original language:EnglishPDF # 1 9.02 x .50 x 5.98l, .69 #File Name: 0897894251160 pages | File size: 51.Mb

Patricia Guthrie : Catching Sense: African American Communities on a South Carolina Sea Island before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Catching Sense: African American Communities on a South Carolina Sea Island:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. black communities on so carolina island, decende nts of slavesBy dogoldi was disappointed because it was redundant and seemed research oriented but by one person's interviews and assumptions.

Plantation membership, an important association that continues to carry meaning in today's African-American communities on the Sea Islands, depends on one's residence between the ages of two and 12. This is the time when one catches sense, or learns the difference between right and wrong and the meaning of social relationships. Plantation membership confers rights and duties to its members for life, particularly in the areas of dispute settlement, adjudication, and status confirmation. The praise house system, which was the focal point of plantation life, is analyzed historically and in terms of the ethnographic present. Guthrie, an African-American anthropologist, believes that much of what she witnessed on St. Helena during her field research was a response to the experience of slavery when identity was derived from plantation residency rather than from mother, father, or place of birth.

"Guthrie's brief but valuable work on the African American communities of the South Carolina islands (a perennial scholarly concern) focuses on St. Helena. Her thorough anthropological research yields an insightful cultural study that will interest a wide variety of scholars and specialists in American race and ethnicity."-Choice?Guthrie's brief but valuable work on the African American communities of the South Carolina islands (a perennial scholarly concern) focuses on St. Helena. Her thorough anthropological research yields an insightful cultural study that will interest a wide variety of scholars and specialists in American race and ethnicity.?-ChoiceAbout the AuthorPATRICIA GUTHRIE is director of the Women's Studies Program at California State University, Hayward, where she is Associate Professor in the Department of Human Development. She is the author of many articles on racism, women's lives, and the African American community.