Najia Aarim-Heriot : Chinese Immigrants, African Americans, and Racial Anxiety in the United States, 1848-82 (Asian American Experience) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Chinese Immigrants, African Americans, and Racial Anxiety in the United States, 1848-82 (Asian American Experience):

Examines the link between the Chinese question and the Negro problem in nineteenth-century America. This work demonstrates that the anti-Chinese sentiment that led up to the passage of the Chinese Exclusion Act of 1882 is inseparable from the racial double standards applied by mainstream white society toward white and nonwhite groups.

"This book provides a new framework for understanding nineteenth century anti-Chinese sentiment. Aarim-Hariot's research and the way she connects her sources should help historians think about racism beyond the biracial paradigm which has entrenched us for too long."--Left History
