Civil Rights (History in Words) By LittleThis item is a must have by everyone who has the slightest interest in American History no matter their ethnicity. As you listen to their speeches and remarks, you feel their pain, and determination in their beliefs. You feel as if you wish you could have been there to contribute in some small way as you appreciate even more what they have done for all mankind. Makes a great gift, so share the word!

Featuring approximately 4 hours of classic, historical audio footage in each set selected by specialists from the National Archives.

These box sets contain some of the most memorable, noteworthy, and historically significant archival recordings of the 20th century. You will hear, as other generations have, the voices and sounds of the past as selected by our audio specialists. These aural compilations reproduce, uncut and unedited, speeches and remarks by U.S. Presidents, inventors, scientists and explorers, as well as 1st-person accounts of dramatic events and periods of the past 85 years. As you hear the authentic voices of the history-makers, you, the listener, will be able to recapture the immediacy of the special moments that shaped our nation's history. --Les Waffan, Chief, Motion Picture, Sound Video
