From Greenwood : Competing Voices from the Russian Revolution: Fighting Words before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Competing Voices from the Russian Revolution: Fighting Words:

This new collection of documents helps students understand the complex texture of Russian public rhetoric and popular debate during World War I and the 1917 Revolution. • More than 300 original documents from the national and local press and from unpublished provincial archival materials, all carefully edited and annotated and either translated into English for the first time or presented in new translations • A chronology of major events in Russia for the period from summer 1914 to mid-January 1918 • Cartoons that appeared in the national and local press in 1917 • A map of Russia in 1917 showing the locations of important cities and geographical features

"This volume is an amazing collection of more than 200 primary source documents from the period of the Russian Revolution, all translated into English and placed in historical context. . . . Summing Up: Highly recommended." - Choice
"Michael Hickey's new book is the most substantial attempt thus far to convey the rich range of views that existed during Russia's turbulent revolutionary period. It should be an essential part of any student module on the subject and many of the sources will force specialists to rethink their views on particular groups and episodes." - Revolutionary Russia
