Joseph T. Durkin : Confederate Navy Chief: Stephen R. Mallory (Classics in Maritime History Series) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Confederate Navy Chief: Stephen R. Mallory (Classics in Maritime History Series):

The book tells of Stephen R. Mallory's support of naval inventions, strategy, and ideas. It also sheds light on the the successes and failures of Jefferson Davis. Durkin gives a well-balanced biography of Mallory and his life in the Confederate navy.

"Mallory . . . directed the Confederate navy department with a great deal of skill and, in the Davis cabinet, was second in ability only to Judah P. Benjamin. For [his] difficult job he was better fitted than any other Southern politician, and he made policy with a laudable imagination. . . . The author has constructed a well-proportioned biography."--
