From Amsterdam University Press : Mission Uruzgan: Collaborating in Multiple Coalitions for Afghanistan before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Mission Uruzgan: Collaborating in Multiple Coalitions for Afghanistan:

Mission Uruzgan provides on-site testimony of the Dutch military mission in Uruzgan, Afghanistan from 2001 to the present day. Proffering fresh data and probing analyses, this extensive examination of a controversial deployment addresses a variety of crucial issues related to Dutch involvement in Afghanistan, from the politicking that led up to the utilization of military tactics to the rules of engagement on the ground. This collection brings together an assortment of learned scholars to deliver a wide range of insights into the problems faced by Dutch soldiers.

About the Author Robert Beeres is an associate professor of defense accounting and control at the Netherlands Defense Academy and the Nyenrode Business School.
