Michael J. Mazarr : North Korea and the Bomb: A Case Study in Nonproliferation before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised North Korea and the Bomb: A Case Study in Nonproliferation:

This book offers the first in-depth history of the greatest diplomatic challenge in the post-Cold War era—the North Korean nuclear program and the US and allied efforts to stop it. Michael J. Mazarr explains why North Korea may believe it needs nuclear weapons and how the US has tried to thwart its plans.

About the Author MICHAEL J. MAZARR is Legislative Assistant for Foreign Policy to Representative Dave McCurdy (D-OK). Dr Mazarr, the author of several books and numerous articles on foreign and defence policy, was previously a Senior Fellow at the Centre for Strategic and International Studies, and is an Adjunct Professor in the Georgetown University National Security Studies Program.
